NEWS BY CHARLES

Hello from High-stone, it's me, Charles, the golden child, Lakeland Terrier, reporting on the news at my home, High-Stone Pet Lodge. This month I'm chatting with my girl friend, Jill-the-Pill. Here's what we're talking about:

MANNERS IN MINUTES – THE SPRING 2005 SEMINAR

CHARLES: So, Jill, what's all the excitement about? JILL: I'm excited about the upcoming Manners In Minutes Seminar. Aren't you, Charles? CHARLES: Yes, Jill, in fact I am. I attended last year and I saw you there. JILL: Of course I was there. I go because it's fun. I've been learning manners since I was four months old. Now I'm two and I just passed my Canine Good Citizen test. That makes me very special. CHARLES: Oh, I know you're special, Jill [Charles winks]. Tell my readers about your manners. Are manners hard to learn? Are they the same as obedience? JILL: No, Charles, not at all. True, I know how to Sit, Wait, and do Down. But that all came after I learned my manners. And my obedience commands were a snap after I had manners. When I talk about manners, I'm talking about appropriate behavior in all situations – like at the vet . . . like not jumping up on my grandma. You don't jump, do you Charles? CHARLES: No, Jill. You're not the only one with manners. So, tell us how you learned these manners. Did it take long? Was it hard for your uprights? JILL: Not at all, Charles. It took us about a day. You see, Charles, it's all about communication. They simply needed to learn to communicate with me. All breeds are different, as you know, Charles. Members of the Herding Group communicate a bit differently from us terriers because we were bred for different reasons. CHARLES: That's so true, Jill, and I know a little about breeding. But all dogs can learn manners . . . and more importantly, all dogs need manners – from toy poodles to big Labs. JILL: Especially big Labs, Charles. And let me tell you why. Because having manners opens doors, so to speak, for all dogs. With manners, we dogs can go anywhere and everywhere and be welcomed by all. Why, I go to outdoor restaurants, I travel around the country, I stay in posh hotels, and everyone thinks I'm the sweetest thing that ever lived. CHARLES: Well, I know better, Jill, but I must admit that your manners-training has done wonders. JILL: Manners got me my Canine Good Citizen title – and that's nothing to scoff at. So, Charles, let's tell everyone we know: Manners in Minutes can turn a rowdy dog into a well-mannered dog in just one day. Improvement is guaranteed. It's just two days, Charles, on May 14 & 15, so it's important to pre-register. CHARLES: I'll remind everyone I see. They just need to call 214-637-DOGS to register for the seminar.

TAKE OFF THAT WINTER COAT! SPRINGTIME AND SHEDDING

Springtime is here and that means your pets are starting to shed. Why, they may already be shedding, and perhaps the fur is flying! Make this spring easy on yourself. Let the fur fly at High-Stone and not in your home. Bring your best friend to our certified groomers for springtime grooming. Consider what High-Stone Pet Lodge can do for you, for your best friend, for your family, and for your home. Let us remove that old winter coat and prepare your pet for the warm summer months in north Texas. Grooming your pet now will save you hours-and-hours of house-cleaning this spring. Reduce your time sweeping and vacuuming and make your pet more comfortable. And while he's here for grooming, take advantage of our day-care program and offer your best friend a morning or an afternoon in doggy daycare.
