NEWS BY CHARLES

It's me again, Charles, the golden child, Lakeland Terrier, reporting on the news at my home, High-Stone Pet Lodge.

HOLIDAYS ARE HERE!

The holiday season is upon us. That means gifts for all good dogs. Gifts for me and for you. It means packages stuffed with treats. It means turkey. Mmm. It's a great time of year . . . napping by the fireplace, nibbling on those dropped tid-bits in the kitchen, nesting in blankets and dreaming of all those gifts I'll get . . . because I'm such a good dog, just like you. From High-Stone Pet Lodge, my people and I wish you a very merry holiday season and a happy new year.

2006 NEW YEAR IS ON THE WAY

It's not too soon to make your plans for January 2006. Maybe your family will be visiting relatives. Maybe they're off to the ski-slopes. Maybe they're escaping the chilly weather for some fun and sun at the beach. Whatever your people have planned for January, it's always fun to make your own escape and come play with me at the lodge. But be warned: space fills-up quickly for our lovely kennels and luxury suites. It's never too early to make your reservation. Ask your people to book now . . . we'll have a fun-filled new year together at High-Stone Pet Lodge.

DAYCARE IS TOASTY WARM FUN ON COLD, WINTER DAYS

If you're primarily the outdoorsy type, then you've already noticed . . . brrrr, baby it's cold outside. You can't always be inside nestled under blankets on the big-bed, and sometimes it's just too cold to play outdoors. Well, I've got the answer for your family. At High-Stone Pet Lodge, it's always play-weather. When it's too cold to stay outdoors at home, or when you just want a break from the usual scenery of your yard, come to High-Stone and check-out our play area. We've got new toys and more play equipment than ever before. Your people can watch you play on our doggy webcam, and you'll stay happy and cozy inside. Weekly and monthly passes are available at discounted prices and they never expire. High-Stone is the perfect place for you on cold days . . . or on any day . . . or every day.

COLD CALLS FOR HEALTHY RUBDOWN

Do you have a touch of arthritis? Are your muscles a bit achy from long walks in the chilly air? Then what you need is a therapeutic massage. Mmm – it feels sooooo good . . . just the thing for some special pampering during the holiday season. Your people love you and want to keep you happy and healthy during this most festive season. A day at the spa is a wonderful way for your people to keep you in shape during the cold winter months. Come visit our spa area and stop and sniff the aroma therapy. Healthy pet: happy pet.

CHAT WITH CHARLES

I love chatting with my pal, Jill. Like most Lakelands, Jill has definite opinions about everything, including the holiday season. Let's chat with the little Jillette and see what she has to say about this time of year.

CHARLES: Jill, what do you know about the holidays?

JILL: Everything, Charles. I'm two, and I've got a lot of holiday experience. It's a time for treats and gifts . . . and sometimes good dogs get to visit with Santa.

CHARLES: I know Santa. He's a friendly chap.

JILL: Indeed he is! Santa and I are old pals. In fact, Charles, you can always count on Santa to come through with the goods.

CHARLES: What goods, Jill? Are you talking about treats?

JILL: Not just treats, Charles. I'm talking about special toys . . . soft beds, collars, winter sweaters.

CHARLES: Do you really like all that stuff, Jill?

JILL: Not really, Charles. But you never, never-ever turn-down a gift. I'll admit that a fetching sweater can be an asset to a young, attractive terrier; but cute collars are over-rated. Treats are nice, but as you know, Charles, playtime is the best gift of all. Forget collars . . . there's no such thing as too much playtime and attention.

CHARLES: Yep, a new collar isn't that much fun. And sometimes collars don't matter. Playtime is what really matters. Why is that, Jill?

JILL: We need to be free to play, Charles. Playtime is what we all crave. Attention and playtime. At day-care we can just be ourselves. We have fun without our designer apparel. We get attention from the staff at High-Stone,, and we get to play, play, play. Everyone gets special attention at daycare.

CHARLES: I thought you were the most special, Jill.

JILL: Ssssh. I am Charles, but modesty prevents me from flaunting it. At day-care, all are equal. It's only at home that I take advantage of my super-star status – at home, and while sitting in Santa's lap.

CHARLES: So you've been to visit the man . . . the famous elf . . . the big guy . . . the Kringle?

JILL: Absolutely. Do you know what I asked for?

CHARLES: What, Jill?

JILL: Well, let's just say that I'm sure to find a pass for doggy-daycare in my stocking. That, and a new bone.

CHARLES: You're a lucky girl, Jill. Clearly, it pays to be a good dog all year long.

JILL: Well, Charles, I take no chances. What if he really DOES know if I'm naughty or nice?!

CHARLES: Good point, Jill. Well said. See you at daycare.
